

Frequent Asked Questions (FAQ) Regarding the Tender Offer for Hisamitsu's Common Shares, etc.

About a Tender Offer and a Management Buyout

Q: What is a Tender Offer?

A: A tender offer is a system prescribed under the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act, and mainly applied when acquiring shares, etc. from an unspecified large number of persons. In this process, the tender offeror discloses the purchase price, tender offer period, and other information. The target company also expresses its opinion on the tender offer and makes necessary disclosures. All holders of the relevant shares, etc. are thereby provided with the opportunity to sell their shares, etc. under the same conditions. The purchase of such shares, etc. is conducted off- market.

Q: What is a Management Buyout (MBO)?

A: A Management Buyout generally refers to a transaction where the management of the target company invests all or part of the acquisition funds and acquires shares of the target company, assuming the continuation of its business. In this tender offer, the tender offeror, TAIYO KOSAN CO., INC. is wholly owned by Mr. Kazuhide Nakatomi, Representative Director and President of the Company, and it is planned that Mr. Nakatomi will continue managing the Company after its delisting. Therefore, this transaction qualifies as an MBO. For details, please refer to the opinion statement press release disclosed by the Company on January 6, 2026.
